New York.

Dear Sir:-

Thanks for your prompt reply about the Journal.
We sincerely hope you will come here to read the present issue. It contains some important articles.

Please make yourself known so that we can make you feel at home here, and perhaps be of special service to you.
Our renovated building is most attractive and comfortable.
We are doing a lot of good work along various lines, and our staff is very enthusiastic. Our library is well catalogued and easily available.

Will you encourage us by your presence and your use of our facilities?

Yours very truly,

for the Secretary.
